McGILL ORCHESTRA

The McGill Undergrad. Orchestra has been asked to play at the regular meeting of the Medical Society on Friday evening at 8 p.m. Four or five popular numbers will be rendered.

There will therefore be no rehearsal to-night. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance, for the rest of the programme is well worth while.

A proposition is on foot at Santa Clara to grant block letters in the future only to participants in several branches of sport. It will not be sufficient to make the football team alone. California's theory is that a man who makes the Varsity and stays in college deserves at least a block letter.

THEOLOGICALS MAKE MERRY LAST NIGHT

Many Interesting and Witty Speeches Delivered During the Evening

Last evening the Freshmen of the Wesleyan Theological College gave their first annual banquet, over 100 sat down to enjoy the hospitality of the juniors. This banquet was in honor of the seniors and came quite as a surprise. The members of the faculty were invited with their wives. After the inner man had been well furnished with every delicacy imaginable, so that even the most fastidious epicure was delighted, the rest of the evening was devoted to speech and song.

Mr. A. O. Dawson ably filled the position of toastmaster. In his toast to the King he laid importance to the fact that our soldiers were at the front filling our places, whilst we enjoyed peace and quietness. Mr. Watson, in proposing the toast to Canada, showed how loyal she was to the Empire in sending so many supplies and a vast army of men. This toast was seconded by Mr. Widling, who showed how Canada was in the making, and that there was every reason for optimism. That we should teach the boys to be idealists in their partner. Musical numbers were rendered during the evening, which were greatly appreciated by all. After the programme was completed refreshments were served, and all departed, having spent a most enjoyable evening.

This toast was replied to by Mr. Grandy. His expression was a transition period. He showed how the old college had been so narrow and how the new one filled a long felt want. He described the old time initiation, and thought that the banquet was a more civilized way of celebrating the occasion. Rev. Dr. Smyth said College life had always had a charm for him. He compared the old with the new College. He thought that the new men would hardly appreciate the new college who had not lived in the old. He showed what college meant, ambition, ideals and the enlargement of view, also friendships formed for life and acquaintances that we should value so long as we lived. That it was the policy of the governors and the

UNDERGRADUATES IN ARTS HELD FIRST MEETING

It was Decided to Hold the Arts' Dinner Again This Year

There was a fair attendance of Arts students at the initial meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society for the session held at twelve o'clock yesterday, and considerable important business was disposed of. The president of the Society, John Abbott, occupied the chair.

A proposal was set on foot to cancel the Arts' dinner this session, but upon this being put to a vote, it was defeated by 40 to 25. It was suggested that the names of the forty students who opposed the motion be taken, and a call be made upon them to buy tickets for the dinner at the proper time. It is likely that this matter will be further discussed at a later meeting of the Society.

Dr. Hermann Walter, Acting Dean of the Faculty of Arts, was elected honorary president, and W. H. Baggar, Arts '17, and A. E. Beckwith, Arts '17, elected to positions on the reading room committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

MEDICINE EIGHTEEN HELD LIVELY CLASS MEETING YESTERDAY

Mr. Burroughs Was Elected President for the Year 1914-15

A very lively meeting of Med. '18 was held yesterday to elect officers for the year. The results were:—
President—Burroughs.
Vice-President—Allan Greenwood.
Secretary—A. T. Oberg.
Treasurer—A. L. Smith.
Daily Representatives—R. P. Pritchard, F. C. Greenwood.

Mr. Doug. Leatroy, president of the class last year, thanked the executive for their support, and especially mentioned the deep interest of A. T. Oberg, the representative from the Dental Department.

There is always considerable interest in the second year elections, for it is by that year that the classic medical festival of "King Cook Celebration" is conducted. Hence the keen competition to obtain the best men possible to fill the executive positions.

First Aid Course For the R.V.C.

It Has Been Decided to Hold Two Classes a Week

A meeting of those interested in forming a class in First Aid to the Injured was held yesterday (Thursday) in the R. V. C. with Miss Grace MacDonald in the chair. On account of the large number wishing to join it has been decided to hold two classes each week. The hours decided on are from 4.30 to 6 on Monday, and from 8.30 to 10 on one evening a week, the particular evening to be decided on by Dr. Tees. It is particularly requested that everyone decide quickly which class they would prefer to join, and sign their name by noon to-day (Friday). The fee for the course is to be $2. This amount should be paid at the first lecture. Miss Grace MacDonald and Miss Gladys Story will look after the matter of subscriptions.

CONVERSAZIONE AT THE HALL GREAT SUCCESS

Freshettes Teach Freshman How to Knit Socks

The Freshman conversazione was held last night in Strathcona Hall, and if smiling, happy faces are any criterion of the success of the affair it must have been one of the best in many years.

Two hundred or more present spent a splendid evening, conversing with one another—the co-eds adding a novel touch to the entertainment by knitting socks for the soldiers while their partners' musical numbers were rendered during the evening, which were greatly appreciated by all. After the programme was completed refreshments were served, and all departed, having spent a most enjoyable evening.

THE HISTORICAL CLUB MET LAST NIGHT IN C.O.T.C. ARMOURY

Plan of Year's Programme Was Decided Upon

The Historical Club of McGill held its first meeting of the session last night in the C.O.T.C. Armoury. Plans for the year were drawn up.

It was felt that a programme in keeping with the general topics of the time, due to the situation in Europe, should take the place of the one drawn up last spring. All were agreed that the subject for the year should be the struggle for Political Ascendancy in Europe since the time of Louis XIV. Special attention is to be paid to the policy of the Hohenzollerns in Germany, which should make the meetings of great interest to all at this time. Dr. Colby, the founder of the club, spoke for a few minutes, and invited the members to use his residence for any meetings. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Dr. Colby for his hospitality.

Compulsory Physical Education Discussed

Graduates of Halifax Royal Naval College to be Admitted to Second Year Science at McGill

Principal Peterson presided at a meeting of the Corporation of McGill University, held last Wednesday afternoon. The recently appointed members of the Corporation were present. Mr. Justice Greenfield, Mr. Paul Sise and the Rev. Dr. Symonds, as well as the two new deans, Dr. Birkett in Medicine, and Mr. R. W. Lee in Law.

It was proposed and carried that an appreciation should be made of the invaluable services rendered by Dr. J. J. Shepherd, who has retired from his office of Dean in Medicine. His high professional standing had always been an unending source of inspiration to the students under his care, and his absence will be greatly felt.

To Mr. R. W. Lee, successor of Dean Walton, the warmest welcome was extended, while a committee was chosen to draft a suitable message to the former Dean, now in the service of the Egyptian Government at Cairo.

The question of compulsory physical education was discussed, and it was resolved to submit the matter to a special committee. Dr. Walter, Dr. Barnes, Prof. Dule and Mr. Percival Melson, for a future report.

The recommendation of the Faculty of Applied Science was adopted, namely, that students of the Halifax Royal Naval College, who have completed their three-year course there, should be admitted to the second year of the Faculty.

Coming to the most important business of the assembly, it was agreed that the Corporation of the University should authorize the offer, made by the Faculty of Medicine, of the personnel of a field service hospital, Dean Birkett was requested to refer the matter to the Department of Militia and Defence, who would make the necessary arrangements.

Reports on this year's registration were read, showing that the numerical falling off is not as great as was at first believed.

Attendance was reported from the various faculties as under:—In the Faculty of Arts the falling off from last year has been very slight, being only nine undergraduates and 32 partial students. The total attendance is 169, as against 510 last year.

In the Faculty of Applied Science there is a slight decrease, chiefly in the first year. The decrease in the higher years is partially accounted for

UNDERGRADUATES IN MEDICINE TO MEET TO-NIGHT

The Undergraduate Medical Society of McGill will hold their first meeting of the year to-night at 8.15 p.m. in the Assembly Hall of the new medical building.

The meeting will be general in form. Business of importance is to be transacted. Addresses will be delivered by Principal Peterson, Dean Birkett, Prof. J. E. Armstrong and Dr. A. W. Thornton.

The committee have also arranged a programme of musical numbers which will be under the supervision of the McGill Orchestra who are appearing for the first time this season. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

This is the first of a regular series of meetings to be held by the Medical Society. Freshmen are especially invited to come and meet their classmates, seniors and professors in an evening of social entertainment.

"U. OF T. SHOULD WIN TRACK MEET"

On Thursday morning, Varsity is sending her team down to McGill to do battle for honors in the Intercollegiate track meet, held on the following day. McGill held her own Interfaculty track meet a few days ago, and the times and records made therein, which have just come to hand, enable us to judge of the success which is likely to attend the Blue and White athletes.

Captain Bill Brown is confident of victory. In most of the sprints McGill's time is recorded as being somewhat better than Varsity's. But this has always been the case before, and it has never prevented the Varsity sprinters from winning easily when they actually came up against their opponents.

It must be remembered that the McGill track is probably the best in Canada, and that Varsity held her events here last Friday in the rain, and on a heavy track, which could not but lower the time made in every race. In the 100 yards and 220 yards, Brown and Low have a very fair chance of winning. The 440 yards, which will be contested by either Seymour or Burgess, is more doubtful. Hughes can be counted on to win in the half-mile; the mile is a pretty safe win for Varsity too, while in the three mile Varsity are certain of success. In the six events, Walters has made a new

SPECIAL WIRE

The story of the game in Kingston on Saturday will be telegraphed by a Daily representative to the Union and announced from the upstairs windows.

TACKLING OF SECOND TEAM IS VERY POOR

With Few Exceptions Intermediates Are Weak in this Department

PENNY SYMONDS HAS INJURED ARM

Absent from Practice But May Start Out on Saturday

Improvement was shown in the work of the second team at yesterday's practice, the showing made in the line-up against the seniors being better than that of the previous day. The Shugmen, however, had no difficulty in making big gains against the intermediates, and at times ran rough them almost at will. This is surprising, in view of the fact that the seniors are playing a more aggressive brand of football than at any previous season. Against a weaker team the second team will probably make a much better showing, and judging by the stand they made at intervals yesterday, they should do well at the game at Kingston.

The back division was weakened yesterday by the absence of Symonds, who has an injured arm, but who is expected to be able to start in the game tomorrow. McKay was used for the center part of the afternoon at center, and will probably play this position. He was taken out for a while to make room for Williams, however, and it is likely that something will go wrong, the latter will be sent in to fill the gap. Woods, who hurt his ankle last week, was in uniform, but did not get into the line-up, and will probably not be used until next week, if the arm should still be in the running.

The tackling of the team seems to be one of the weakest spots in their work. The half-backs of the seniors frequently eluded the outside lines, even when at close quarters. The Montgomery often slipped through small holes in the line for big gains. This will have to be remedied if the team is to make a stand against the Presbyterians on Saturday, as one of the latter team are fast men and hard to bring down. Luckily, the team possesses a hardy man and a tackler in Macdonald, who plays the second line of defence, and gets out of the backs. He stands a lot of punishment and never lets up. Parsy, at outside right, has also been doing some tackling, but not as much as he appears to be able to execute.

REDUCED PRICE FOR SEATS AT TRACK SPORTS

The seats for the intercollegiate track and field sports to be held on a M. A. A. grounds this afternoon at 2:30 are on sale at the Union in R. Melville's office. The seats at the allowed street entrance will be twenty-five cents. This is in order that a record breaking crowd may turn out.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS THIS AFTERNOON AT M. A. A.

Queen's, Toronto and McGill will Battle for the Track Honours of the Year

HALF HOLIDAY HAS BEEN GRANTED UNIVERSITY

U. of T. and the Red and White as of Old will Likely be the Closest Rivals in the Sports

The intercollegiate athletic championship will be decided this afternoon at the M. A. A. grounds, when track teams representing Queen's, Toronto and McGill Universities will battle for the honors. The contest promises to be an extremely close one, as the representatives of Varsity and McGill are athletes of high calibre, and on previous performances appear to be evenly matched.

That the meet will develop into a struggle between the two old-time rivals is predicted by those who have witnessed the efforts of the McGill and Toronto athletes this year. Queen's has seldom been a serious contender for the laurels, and unless the Presbyterians are underrated, they are not likely to spring a surprise. With the exception of a few men, their team is said to be none too strong, but the Kingston athletes, by winning some of the events, may be instrumental in putting either of the other contestants out of the running. The Royal Military College, having given up all major sports, will not be represented in the meet.

Judging from the records of the inter-sports, held recently at both Toronto and McGill, the battle between these two teams should be a close one. A comparison of the results would at first sight seem to give the edge to the Red and White, as in the majority of events better marks were set by the McGill athletes. The local sports, however, were not staged under ideal conditions, and were more fortunate in this respect than those at Toronto. Rain interfered considerably with the Varsity meet, and the competitions went on under circumstances which militated greatly against exceptional performances. The track was especially heavy, making fast time in the sprints an impossibility. Taking this into consideration, it would seem that the McGill track team is facing a difficult task in their contest with the Varsity contingent this afternoon. In the hundred yards, McGill will send Smelzer, Heron and Fraser against Browne, Lowe and Burgess, of Toronto. This event should provide one of the most exciting struggles of the meet, as all are speedy men. Smelzer did 1.5 in the quarter-class meet a week ago, and looks to be the fastest of the local trio, but will have a worthy opponent in Browne, who is being counted on by Varsity to carry off first place. The struggle for second and third positions in this, as well as all the other events, will be interesting, owing to the fact that the team which can get the greatest number of men into the money stands in excellent chance of finally winning out. First place, while earning five points for the winner, only forms part of the total, three points being given for second and one for third place.

In the pole vault and high jump the Blue and White appear to have a lead on the McGill competitors. Leonard, in the former, and McKeeough, in the latter event, will probably be the winners, but the local entries may furnish a surprise. In any event, Cushing and Starch are expected to take second and third place to Leonard, who is the only Toronto entry in this event, while Smelzer and Cushing ought to take some points in the high jump. The weight events should provide some keen competition, as the entries from all three colleges are first class men. Sutherland, who last week won the McGill all-round championship, is the local hope for the hammer, discus and shot-put. He will have a stiff fight to best McKinnon, of Queen's, and O'Reilly, Walters and Sted, of Toronto, however, the Kingston heroics being especially dangerous. The McGill entries in the hurdles, broad jump and the distances have all been going well, and can be counted on to give a good account of themselves. From whatever angle the probabilities are regarded, however, it looks like an extremely close affair, as Varsity has one of the strongest teams in years.

Given good weather conditions, some of the intercollegiate records should go, as the track at the M. A. A. grounds is a fast one. Most of the events will probably be closely contested affairs, and the winner will be pushed to the limit to finish in the lead. In deciding the championship, much will depend on the first few events, as the team which goes into the lead at the start usually manages to pull out a victory. The McGill athletes will accordingly put forth every effort to make a stand in the initial stages of the struggle. The team is a steady one, however, and should they fail to get away as well as their opponents, can be depended upon to fight an uphill battle with excellent prospects of finally winning out. The first event of the card is scheduled for two-thirty, and a large crowd will probably be on hand to witness the battle for the Canadian college track championship. Rush seats are selling at twenty-five cents, and a large crowd of roopers is expected to turn out and cheer the Red and White to a victory. Efforts are being made by the executive to have the band in attendance, and should they be successful, Charlie Gibbs and his cohorts will liven up the proceedings considerably.

McGILL TEAM IS ROUNDING INTO SHAPE FOR BATTLE WITH THE PRESBYTERIANS

Signals Are Working Well—Snap and Dash Are Being Instilled Into the Play

PROF. McLEOD REPLIES TO VARSITY'S INQUIRY

Regarding Status of Lemay—Waterous, Jeffrey and Brown Stating he was Satisfied their Registrations were Bona-fide

The McGill team is fast rounding into a good aggregation. In yesterday's practice they completely outplayed the seconds in every department of the game. The plays were run off smoothly, the signals working well and the men showing a familiarity with them which was pleasing to the coach. A snap and dash featured the team's work, which altogether bewildered the intermediates.

Before the regular line-up Shag gave his men plenty of running to do. First he had them following down under kicks, at which several men who have generally been rated as none too fast showed good speed. Fred Ross in particular was noticed as getting down under the punts in fine fashion. Quilty, who was doing the kicking, was boasting the ball well up in the air, and was getting good distance also. Paisley, Geo. Laing and Jeffrey were doing the catching, and will, it is practically certain, form the back division in tomorrow's game.

Shag made the men sprint up and down the field several times to test their wind, and show up those that were suffering from lack of condition. Surprising speed was shown by the squad, which, taken all together, at present, is by no means a slow aggregation.

Before the regular workout, Paisley was practicing converts, and although he at first had little success, later on he became more proficient, and was able to do the trick fairly well. There is nobody on the team who has any particular aptitude with the best as far as drop kicking or converting are concerned. It is most regrettable that there is nobody who can kick in either of these ways, for it may happen that a case will arise where one, two or three points would win the game, and McGill will not be able to get them.

Paisley was not able to get into the line-up against the seconds, as his neck is still troubling him. Woolatt took his place, and put up a good brand of ball. Herbie will be used as first spare on the back division in tomorrow's fixture. He is at present playing very good football. It was in Kingston two years ago that he first played for the senior team, his exhibition that day being superb.

Ross Laing, Kelly and Kennedy alternated at outside wing, Laing and Kennedy will in all likelihood be the two men to start out. Quilty and Williamson were again the two middles, while Reid and Ross are also set in their positions of inside. DeLath was unable to get out yesterday, but will be in his position in the scrimmage on Saturday afternoon. Pennock will probably be the other side scrummager; he tackles well, and though light, is strong.

Varsity, some time during the week, wrote a letter of inquiry to Secretary McLeod of the I.R.F.U. regarding the academic standing of Waterous, Lemay, Jeffrey and Brown. The letter was answered by Prof. McLeod, assuring Varsity that he was satisfied that all the men mentioned were bona fide students in regular attendance at lectures in the University.

Varsity might start a private investigation nearer home, into the smattering standing of some of the officers on their team.

There was a military drill after the practice yesterday, at which Shag and Sine displayed a much greater familiarity with the way of carrying out the commands than they did on Wednesday.

There will be a signal practice for both teams at 12:30 p.m. today, so as to give the players an opportunity to attend the intercollegiate sports this afternoon. Both teams will leave for Kingston this evening on the G. T. R. train. The Varsity team is expected to have been finally arranged for, and a full account of every play will be relayed from Kingston just as it happens, a special Daily representative making the trip for this purpose.

GRIDIRON GRIST

(BY FIELD GOAL)

There is one department of the game which a coach is liable to overlook, and this is the kicking of field goals. (This does not mean the zipping of the ball through the uprights, though he may occasionally deserve such treatment.) In the last two seasons drop kicks have figured very little in the outcome of intercollegiate matches. Barvis, of R. M. C., scored several points for his team this way in more than one game last fall, but in general the dropping of field goals has almost been an unheard of thing in the intercollegiate, since Billington left McGill. This season, however, there bids fair to be a revival of this useful method of scoring, for no less than three field goals were kicked during last Saturday's game in Toronto. McKenzie twice managed to put the ball over the bar, thereby adding six points to his team's total, while Hazlett did the same stunt once.

On Thanksgiving Day in Ottawa, McGill were very nearly beaten by the same stunt once. They were scored by a field goal. On the Red and White team at present there is not one man who can be relied upon to drop a goal with any certainty. Three points are not to be scored so easily that it is not worth while to try to develop some man who can be used to kick a drop, when called upon to do so. It is most unfortunate that McGill has no player this season who has marked kicking ability, and who can be relied upon to kick consistently in every game, but such being the case it is next to impossible for the Coach to get a man who can be of any value for drop kicking.

One of the best drop kicks ever pulled off was that which Sine McKevine made on the old Varsity Oval in Ottawa three years ago, when McGill were playing Ottawa College. Sine was spare quarterback back up to the time of that game, and had been put on when Paisley was injured. The goal which Sine kicked happened like this: McGill had the ball on Ottawa College's thirty-yard line, and Billington pointed over the line to one of the Garnet and Grey half backs, who returned the kick. Sine caught the ball, kicked as pretty a beautiful catch, but not content with this, he turned towards the goal, and dropping the ball, kicked as pretty a field goal as has ever been seen. The three points he scored did not win the game, but they started a rally which left the final score much closer than it might have been. Billington's field goal in Kingston, the same season, saved a game for McGill. There were about two minutes left to play, and McGill had the ball on Queen's fifty-yard line. The signal was given for a drop, which was about the only way to win the game, as McGill were then two points behind, and there was not enough time left to score the points singly, or in which to go over for a touch. It hardly seemed possible that Billington could do what was asked of him, both on account of the distance and the sharp angle from which he had to kick, as the ball was then right at the side of the field. However, it was drop that goal or lose the game, and he, by a wonderful piece of booting, not only managed to win the game, but sent the ball over the exact middle of the bar.

There is no prettier play than a nicely kicked field goal, and also, as pointed out by the relating of the second example mentioned above, there sometimes is no more useful play in a team's collection of offensive tactics than that of being able to score three points now and then by having on the team a player who can be counted upon to kick a good drop. This year McGill will need to be all the nearer to perfection in the other departments of the game, to offset the advantage Queen's and Varsity are going to derive from having Hazlett and McKenzie behind the line to kick a drop if the opportunity arises.

by the fact that a number of these students have gone to the front. The total attendance is 494, as against 583 last year, a decrease of 89. In medicine there is an increase on the whole of 17, due chiefly to the fact that the attendance in the first year is 116, as against 92 last session.

The total attendance in the faculty is 394.

The enrollment in the Faculty of Law, viz., 76, is about the same as it was last session.

In the Conservatorium of Music, there is an increase in the number of students proceeding to a degree or diploma, and also in the number of junior partials, although there is a slight decrease in the total enrollment.

In Macdonald College there is an increase in both the Schools of Agriculture and the School for Teachers, making an increase on the whole.

In the four faculties of Arts, Law, Applied Science and Medicine, the decrease in the number of undergraduates is only about 100.

McGILL TENNIS TEAM BACK FROM THE TOURNAMENT

Men Grateful for the Kind Reception they Received in Kingston

GREEN PLAYED IN SPLENDID FORM

Draw is Posted for Games to be Played To-day and Saturday

The McGill tennis team returned yesterday after a very strenuous three days' play, tired but completely satisfied with the result of their exertions. Green's work was especially noteworthy. His mastery of the grass court game was a revelation to his audience, and his showing earned much towards the winning of the championship. But the other McGill men, to say the least, were not idle. Cleveland won two singles and a double; Dempster one single and a double; Ward one single, and Skeete two doubles.

The mainstay of the Varsity team was Rennie, who was responsible for six out of the nine points scored by the Toronto men. Had the draw brought Greene and Rennie together earlier, the result would have been, in all probability, an increased margin for McGill.

The R. M. C. courts were a great improvement over those which were in such poor condition, owing to the week's rain, that it was impossible to play on them.

The men were loud in their praise of the Students' Council for the excellent accommodation afforded the members of the visiting team.

The draw in the Freshman singles will be played off on Friday at 2 p.m. between Sutherland and Hurdman. The winner will play Ross on Saturday afternoon.

The club singles are now in the second round. Dempster and Taylor have yet to finish. Greene will play Laviolette at 2 p.m., and on Saturday Vermont and McGill are to meet in the morning.

THE HARRIER'S HELD THE BEST RUN OF SEASON YESTERDAY

All Men Made Fast Time and Finished Close to One Another

The Harriers met again at the shack at 5:15 last night and had the best run of the season. This time the course was changed in order to give the runners more hill work. After leaving the shack they went up McTavish to Pine avenue, and along Pine to the Serpentine road. From here the mountain road was followed, around by the upper reservoir, down on to Mount Royal avenue and out along St. Catherine Road to Laurier avenue. The turn was made here and the usual course followed in with a few laps around the track to finish up.

Coach Bayley was more than ever satisfied with last night's showing, but he would like to see a few more out.

Jack Hall

The able manager of this year's football team

As it is now, it will be the first year for some time that there will be any difficulty in choosing a team, as all are pretty evenly matched. McDermott was out for the first time last night and made McCreary and Lalonde hustle. He should make a very likely man for the team with another week's training.

Next week the runs will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and it is just possible that a trial run for the team will be made on the last named day. No word has been received from Queen's yet, and it will depend on the date chosen by the latter club.

Those out last night were Struthers, McDermott, McCreary, Lalonde, McLeod and Guy.

WOMEN OFFER AID IN PRESENT WAR

Japanese Women Offer Services As Divers to Locate Mines At Kiau Chau

The present war has brought home to us with great force the noble self-sacrificing qualities of womanhood. It is seen in the noble mother who stands by smiling while her husband, or her sons, march away to war. It is seen in the arduous tasks that the ladies of all lands have set themselves to perform in order to alleviate as much as possible the hardships of the men in the field. Again, it is seen in the hardships the nurses undergo in the hospitals at the front. One novel incident of self-sacrifice comes to us from our allies, the Japanese. At present the Japanese are endeavoring to take Kiau Chau, the city which the Chinese Government leased to the Germans. The Germans, however, have the city well fortified especially the harbor which is set thickly with mines. One hundred Japanese women, shell divers by profession, offered their services to the Japanese naval authorities. It was their intention to go to Kiau Chau, to dive and locate the mines so that mine sweepers might enter and clear the harbor. However, the Japanese authorities refused their offer as it is an understood fact that no women should be in the employ of the naval or military departments in Japan. Yet, this serves to show the noble self-sacrifice of which the women of the nations are capable.

Fat Mamma—Now, son, learn to recite this: "Twinkle, twinkle, little star—"

The Brat—Whither yer mean, twinkle, ma? Flirting with de old gent on de bald-headed row?

Dignified Senior—I took logic last term.

Co-Ed, 18—And did you have to go to the infirmary?

Most professors do not really profess. They are content to repeat the formulas they have learned, carry around their titles and draw a meagre stipend—Life.

We didn't know that Life had mutilated here, but we see that he knows an awful lot about things.

California—A "Paloma" parade is one of the annual events of the students of the University of California. The business section of the city is invaded and it is conducted much like a shirt tail parade at the University of Texas.

Wisconsin—A second-year Freshman was suspended for three days by the student court of Wisconsin because he refused to wear the regulation green cap. The decisions of the student court at this place are made known to the students through the columns of the paper.

The largest squad in the history of the University has appeared at Chicago for swimming practice. Coach White places his hopes in Captain Neff and Pavlicek.

Rowing has been discontinued as a sport at the University of Wisconsin. An investigation by the medical department covering several years shows that fifty per cent. of the crew men have suffered enlargement of the heart.

The president of the Purdue University, Indiana, gave the following precepts to the Freshmen of his school this year:

1. A systematic and orderly routine of life, certain hours for certain things, a regular schedule for your daily work and play.

2. Learn to concentrate your attention upon the work in hand.

3. Be industrious. The actual amount of work required of you is great, and it is necessary for you to apply yourself with unflinching industry.

4. Be punctual and prompt in meeting all appointments and duties.

5. Complete each day's work in the day assigned to it. Do not let your work accumulate or put it off for some other day.

6. Seek intimate contact and acquaintance with your instructors. They wish to help you, but cannot do so if you are not within their reach.

7. Eliminate from your life all non-essentials. Choose that which is good and useful and in harmony with your purpose and put aside all else.

Son—"Why are giraffes' necks so long, dear papa?"

Dear Papa—"Why—er—er—to connect their heads with their bodies."

Did Connie Mack use Plank to spank the Braves? No, Little Crawford, one is to be on top before their reach.

CHAPTER IV.

COMPANY DRILL.

81. Object of company drill. The object of company drill is to train the four platoons to work together as parts of the same tactical unit, and to acquire flexibility and the power of rapid manoeuvre within the company.

82. General Rules.

1. The company may be formed as follows:—
(i) In line.
(ii) In close column of platoons.
(iii) In column of platoons.
(iv) In column of fours or in file.
(v) In column of platoons or sections in fours or file.

2. The positions of all commanders and supernumeraries in the various formations are shown in Plates XIII, XIV, and XV. During drill and manoeuvre the company commander and second-in-command will place themselves where they can best exercise supervision.

3. The positions of the company second in command, the company sergeant-major, and the company quarter-master-sergeant, as shown in Plate XIII, remain the same, whether the company is in the right or the left.

4. Guides.—In line, and in column of platoons, the section commander, or commanders, on the directing flank will act as guide or guides and be responsible for the maintenance of direction and distance. In lines of platoons or sections in fours or file the leading man on the inner flank of the directing unit will be responsible for direction, the leading man on the inner flank of each of the other units for maintaining the correct interval.

5. In action or in high wind it will often be impossible for words of command to be heard. The company commander should therefore frequently practice his command in working by signal (see Sec. 94).

6. The general rules for platoon drill enumerated in Sec. 77, paras. 3-10, apply equally to company drill.

7. Unless otherwise ordered, a company will fall in for inspection in column of platoons, and will be inspected and proved as in Sec. 78.

Notes.—1. In the following detail the title of the drill movement is shown in italics, and is followed by the company commander's caution or word of command in thick type. The detail of the movement then follows, in which orders to be given by platoon commanders are printed in italics. The company commander's cautions or words of command, when referred to in the detail, are printed in small capitals.

83. When cautions and commands are given, the platoons (to or from the flank only, the same rule applies when forming to or from the other flank.

84. Movements and formations for which detail is given in fours can also be made in file or single file.

85. A company changing ranks when halted.

About—Turn. The whole will turn about except officers and supernumeraries, who will remain in their positions, by passing round the flanks or through the ranks of the company, section commanders making way for them on the command Make way, by placing themselves between the files on their right or left, and afterwards, aligning themselves with the front rank.

Note.—If ranks are changed on the march, section commanders will make way by checking the pace slightly and inclining outward.

86. Close Column Movements.

1. A close column changing direction. CHANGE DIRECTION RIGHT, RIGHT—WHEEL.

The company, except the leading platoon, will make a partial turn to the left; the leading platoon will not turn, but will look to the right.

Each man will move round on the circumference of a circle of which the right of the leading platoon is the centre. The outer flank will direct, but when platoons are of unequal strength they will maintain their relative positions as they held before the wheel.

2. The second in command will superintend the wheel on the left flank, the company sergeant-major on the right, and the former must, in regulating the pace, watch the left guide of the rear platoon, who will continue to march at a full pace throughout, and on whose movement the march of every man in the company should be made to depend.

When the company has circled round to the required angle, the command Forward, Mark Time, or Halt, will be given, on which all will at once return in the required direction.

Notes.—1. When wheeling to the left, it will be the duty of the company sergeant-major to watch the right guide of the rear platoon as above.

2. A close column moving in fours will, as above, the leading four will maintain their position in the same manner as the leading platoon above, the fours in rear making a partial turn outward and following round after the leading fours.

3. A close column forming column of fours.

Advance (or Retire) in Fours from the Right. Form Fours—Right.

The commander of the leading (or rear) platoon will give: Left (or Right) wheel, Quick—March, and each platoon commander will act similarly in time to gain his place in column of fours.

3. A close column forming line facing in the same direction.

The leading platoon will stand at ease. The remainder will be held by their guides by the shortest route to the spot where their rank will rest. Each platoon will then wheel parallel to the alignment and when opposite to its place in line will be halted and turned to the right by its commander.

Note.—When companies are strong, the command—Remainder, Form—Fours, Left, will be given instead of Remainder, Left—Turn.

(ii) Line—Outwards, One (or Two) Platoons to the Right. Remainder, Form—Fours, Outwards, Quick—March.

The movement will be made on the above principle. The platoon or platoons next in succession from the front will move to the named flank.

When line has been formed the company commander will name a flank of direction.

4. A close column on the march forming line facing a flank.

The commander of the rear platoon will at once give: At the Halt, Left—Form. Each of the other commanders will form his platoon into line in like manner when it arrives at column distance from the platoon next in rear.

5. Advancing in column from close column.
Advance in—Column.

The commander of the leading platoon will give: Fly the Right Quick—March, and the remaining platoons will be similarly marched off when the platoon next in front has reached column distance.

6. A column on the march closing to close column.
At the Halt, Form Close—Column (or Close Column at—)

The leading platoon will at once be halted by its commander. The remainder will be halted successively on reaching their positions in close column.

Note.—If it is required to continue moving after closing, the command will be: Form Close Column. Remainder, Double—March, on which the leading platoon will continue to advance in quick time, the remainder taking up the quick time as they gain the correct distance.

Happy Flowery land! His sceptre Rules o'er valley, mount and plain. Mildly, calmly, justly ruleth, He the people's love would gain. Yet his weapons might, in splendor, Beam through all the land amain. God uphold thee, warrior, Father! Monarch of the Austrian land!

He delights the poor to cherish, He awakes the minstrel's lay, He would not any perish, He would the gentle way, "Heaven reward him, God defend him," Kaiser, Emperor, Monarch, Father, All thy peaceful rule obey!

He from bondage will deliver, He would make us truly free! In the German heart shall ever dwell the memory of thee, All in other world's a welcome Greet in blest eternity. God defend thee, God attend thee, Emperor Franz, all hail to thee!

Poland's not yet dead in slavery, She once more shall be free! What she lost her children's bravery Soon will free again!

Skrynecki leads us on, Over the broad and free, Poland shall be free! Crush all tyranny!

Polish blood's already flowing, But our swords are drawn, Hope in every heart is growing, All to fight are gone!

See the Czar's great army shatter'd In its proud array! See his conqueror's legions scatter'd, Poles have join'd the day!

Dear white eagles, fly ye ever Over the broad and free, Every bond to-day we'll sever, Of foul tyranny.

"It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary" is now the recognized marching song of our gallant soldiers on the Continent, and the sentiment expressed in the line, "It's a long, long way to go," is typical of the determination of Tommy Atkins to carry the war through to the bitter end. The Kaiser will some day learn what this means, for the bitter end to Tommy At-

EXPERIENCES OF A.S.C. OFFICER

Letter, Written on September 29th by Lieut. M. S. Stewart

Following is a letter received by A. J. Duncan, B.A., recently editor-in-chief of "Varsity." The writer is Lieut. M. S. Stewart, of the English Army Service Corps, who graduated from B.M.C. in 1912. He is the son of Mr. H. M. S. Stewart, of Brunswick Ave., Toronto.

The letter was written from the front during the progress of a battle on Sept. 29th, and received on October 29th. Lieut. Stewart writes:—"This sort of thing is certainly quite as exciting as most people could wish for. I cannot tell you much about things just at present as that is absolutely forbidden, but I have seen the whole show from Mons to where we are now. This is written during a lull in the battle which has been going on for about a week, and I believe that we have got them on the run again. We got over a thousand of them when they came on last night with our machine guns. I had mine in action for about five minutes on the roof of the car when it was removed by a shell, so I doused my search light and saw the rest of the show in almost peace and quietness.

"You have or can have no idea of what we went through in that long retreat. It was absolutely undiluted hell for over a week. My first car was smashed up by a German shell on the first night of the retreat, so I did the whole thing on horseback and it was fierce. We often had thirty-four out of thirty-six hours on horse-back and never had time to cook any food much less to sleep.

"The Germans aren't worth a hoot with a rifle, but are pretty good with machine guns and artillery. They are beginning to have a deadly fear of us by now, I think.

"The night during the retreat, I got lost in the car and got inside their lines before I discovered where I was. I managed to get the car turned and started out, when an impertinent sentry challenged us. We shot first, and he did not much more to say. Luckily we got out without much damage and managed to get a couple more out of the way. We then steered some French cavalry down on them.

"We have just this minute received a message that we may expect to be attacked at any minute, and three German shells have just hit about a hundred yards away so we are in for it again. This sort of thing has been going on for over a week now. The Germans have up a number of large field guns with which they can outrange us, and they sure do keep us on the jump. They throw a 250 pound shell, which we call coal-boxes, and you can hear them some distance away as they come through the air. Anyone who is not in a bomb proof shelter when they come, does not lose any time in getting into one, as they will kill at five hundred yards from where they burst. I have been living in a shelter for over a week now, with the car in one as well, when it is not being used.

"Well, au revoir old man, the time for this attack is getting closer."

kins is Berlin, and the popular strains of "Tipperary" may soon be heard as our victorious regiments swing along under den Linden. In the meantime, there is much marching and fighting to be done, and a correspondent of the Times, well known in musical circles, has written a number of topical verses to point airs to increase Tommy Atkins' repertoire.

SIX NEW SONGS.

I.

Air—"Keel Row."

He tore the scrap of paper, The Belgian scrap of paper, He tore the scrap of paper, And bade the bullets fly.

Chorus.

So now we're off to Berlin, To Berlin, to Berlin, So now we're off to Berlin To ask the reason why.

He shot the wives and children, The wives and little children, He shot the wives and children, And laughed to see them die.

He sacked the shrines of Louvain, Of Senlis, Rheims and Louvain, He sacked the shrines of Louvain, They flamed against the sky.

He swore his heart was bleeding, He swore his heart was bleeding, He swore his heart was bleeding, And winked his wicked eye.

He tried the road to Paris, The blood-stained road to Paris, He tried the road to Paris, It only was a try.

He talked of German culture, Of blood and iron and culture, He talked of German culture, And every word a lie.

II.

Air—"Cheer, Boys, Cheer."

March, boys, march, along the road to Berlin, Singing, and cheering, and seeking all A wild cat, whose mouthaches want uncurling, A man-eating tiger, brought at last to bay.

Although he swore his tender heart was bleeding, For shrines he'd burnt and women-folk he'd slain, He knew to what his cruel words were leading, When he made his Uhlan's recall the Hun again.

By all the blood that stained the Belgian waters, By all the dead that strewed the Belgian fields, By children slain, by outraged wives and daughters, We'll show no mercy, till the tyrant yields.

Down, for ever down, with the blood and brains, Down, for ever down, with the Prussian Kaiser's pride, Wrink the eagle's neck—he's changed into Gorged with the flesh of the thousands who have died.

III.

Air—"John's Brown Body."

D'ye ken John French, with his khaki suit, His belt and gaiters, and stout brown boot, Along with his guns, and his horse, and his foot, On the road to Berlin in the morning?

Down, for ever down, with the blood and brains, Down, for ever down, with the Prussian Kaiser's pride, Wrink the eagle's neck—he's changed into Gorged with the flesh of the thousands who have died.

By all the blood that stained the Belgian waters, By all the dead that strewed the Belgian fields, By children slain, by outraged wives and daughters, We'll show no mercy, till the tyrant yields.
